

JOHN BARLEYCORN IS CO-RESPONDENT IN THREE CASES HEARD FRIDAY

That old friend of matrimonial discontent and unhappiness, Demon Rum, caused the breaking up of three homes, according to the testimony of three wives given yesterday at Judge Morse's divorce matinee.

In all three cases heard the husband was accused of drinking, and in two of the cases of being a habitual drunkard.

Ellen Nora Jacobson was the first to complain. She married Charles J. Jacobson, August 26, 1903, and declared that he used to come home drunk at least twice a week. In April, 1906, he ceased to support her and she has since worked as a clerk in a store. Cruelly also entered into this case as the wife asserted that at two occasions her husband "had come home drunk and given her a pair of black eyes." The divorce was granted.

Louise White said that her husband, William L. White, has been a drunkard for fifteen years.

"But during the past five or six years," she declared, "he has been worse than ever and came home drunk about every night."

There are five children and Edward White, the eldest, testified for his mother.

"My father has been a drunkard as long as I can remember," he declared. He is 20 years of age.

The Whites were married December 23, 1905. The husband is a cattle man and earns approximately $200 a month. The wife was awarded the divorce asked for, the custody of the children and $75 a month alimony.

Mary E. Bartlett asked a divorce on the ground of non-support, and when asked about her husband did with his money, she declared that he spent it in gambling and drink. She did not charge, however, that he was a habitual drunkard.

She married Edward E. Bartlett, August 19, 1896, at Carthage, Mo., and said that for the past year he has contributed nothing to her support, although employed as an engineer on the Denver & Rio Grande and earning $200 a month. The divorce was granted and the wife was given $25 a month alimony and $10 attorney's fees.

The action brought by Mary W. French against Frank D. French was on all morning before Judge Morse. Only two witnesses were examined and they testified as to the financial condition of the defendant. They were Amos D. Walther, brother of Mrs. French, and J. R. Call, an expert accountant, who examined the books of the Utah Billposting company, of which French is the manager. Nothing of interest was developed and the further hearing was continued until Monday, when French will take the stand in his own behalf.

Judge Morse yesterday appointed John S. Rollo, stenographer for the supreme court, to take testimony in the suit for divorce brought by John G. Willis against Mae Willis. Willis is an attorney for the Oregon Short line and is well known here.

MURRAY NEWS NOTES.

Murray day, the day set aside by the Murray City volunteer fire department, will be celebrated in the Smelter city on August 15. At a meeting held at the city hall at Murray, the committee was instructed to issue invitations to Logan, Salt Lake, Bingham, Provo, Sandy, Draper, Brigham and one or two other towns. A committee composed of George Gallagher, William Caldwell and Sam Whittle has been named to look after advertising.

The day's festivities will commence in the forenoon with a parade, headed by the Murray City band and the State band of Salt Lake, followed by the mayor and city councilmen in carriages. The visiting firemen will follow, and the Murray department will come next in full firefighting regalia, drawing the fire apparatus. The afternoon's sports will consist of field events. The races between the Bingham and Murray departments will be watched with keen interest. Bingham defeated Murray last year.

The day's sport will close with a banquet and dance at the Trocadero in the evening.

John Fabian, a native of Italy, was haled before Judge Brown of Murray yesterday and was fined $15 for striking Mrs. Laura Keyser with his fist. The fracas grew out of a social gathering, which was held at Fabian's place. Something occurred which caused Fabian's wrath to break out, and Mrs. Keyser, endeavoring to quiet the disturbance, received the full force of Fabian's fist on the jaw.

Sandy will have a big celebration on Pioneer day. A parade will take place at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, after which a program will be rendered at Allison's Grove. Julius C. Schmidt will deliver the oration of the day, while W. L. Batesman will officiate as marshal of the day. In the afternoon a ball game will take place between Sandy and Bingham Junction, followed by games for young and old. Horse races will be the feature at 2:30 o'clock, followed by a balloon ascension. The day will close with an elaborate display of fireworks and a ball at the town hall.
